William R. White SURFBOARD FIN BOX WITH DETACHABLE, LEASHED FII

CLAIMS

15

What is claimed is:

- 1. An improved surfboard fin box system, the fin box system comprised of a box, a surfboard fin, and a fin leash,
- the box a rectangular container with an open top, the container in an elongated rectangular shape, the length of the container sufficient to receive a surfboard fin through the open top of the box, the box possessing a plurality of fin attachment means, the fin attachment means disposed along the open top of the box such that the fin attachment means exert pressure on the side of a fin inserted into the open top of the box and resting in the box, the box possessing a box attachment point, the fin possessing an inserted end and a fin end, the inserted end of the fin possessing a distinctive shape for quick fin release from the box,

William R. White SURFBOARD FIN BOX WITH DETACHABLE, LEASHED FII

the fin inserted end possessing a fin leash attachment point, one end of the fin leash attached removably to the fin leash attachment point, the fin leash other end attached removably to the box attachment point,

- the fin inserted end possessing a fin leash cutout, the fin leash cutout shaped in such a manner as to permit the fin leash to be stored under the fin and inside the box when the fin is inserted into the open top of the box.
 - 2. An improved surfboard fin box system as in Claim 1, where the inserted end of the fin possesses a distinctive shape which is two beveled cuts on opposite ends of the inserted end.

10

- 3. An improved surfboard fin box system as in Claim 1, where the inserted end of the fin possesses a distinctive shape which is a smoothly rounded curve.
- 4. An improved surfboard fin box system as in Claim 1, where the fin attachment means is a set screw fitted to a screw threaded slot.